

Simpson Thacher Expands European Private Credit Team

New York—July 1, 2024—Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP announced today that Hadrien Servais will join the Firm’s Alternative Capital and Private Credit group, where he will lead the European Private Credit team.

“The private credit market continues to grow significantly, and Hadrien’s extensive experience in European and cross-border leveraged finance will be a tremendous benefit to clients seeking market-leading expertise for private credit and alternative capital solutions,” said Alden Millard, Chair of Simpson Thacher’s Executive Committee. “We are very excited to take this significant step in the continued growth of our global Alternative Capital and Private Credit platform, and we are very pleased to welcome Hadrien to Simpson Thacher.”

Hadrien has extensive experience advising direct lenders, major investment banks, private capital providers and private equity sponsors. Recognized as a leading lawyer by Chambers Europe, The Legal 500 and IFLR 1000, his work focuses on cross-border acquisition and leveraged finance, opportunistic credit financings and other debt financing solutions spanning all market cycles. Hadrien joins Simpson Thacher from another international law firm.

“As one of the leading leveraged finance practitioners in Europe, Hadrien is well known for his commitment to clients, technical expertise and deep understanding of the market,” said David Teh, who leads Simpson Thacher’s Alternative Capital and Private Credit team. “His diversity of experience and collaborative, solutions-oriented approach to transactions makes him a perfect fit for Simpson Thacher’s integrated, multidisciplinary team.”

Jason Glover, Head of Simpson Thacher’s London office, remarked, “Hiring Hadrien marks the latest step in the ongoing growth of our broader financing team in Europe, following the recent hires of Katie McMenamin, Paul Hibbert and Emma Serginson. Hadrien’s extensive experience and ability to develop deep relationships in the private credit space enhances the offering to our clients.”

Simpson Thacher’s Alternative Capital and Private Credit group is comprised of an integrated team of lawyers across the Firm’s renowned Banking and Credit, Capital Markets and Restructuring Practices focusing on capital solutions across the entire lifecycle of financing transactions. The Alternative Capital and Private Credit group’s multidisciplinary approach also draws on the skill of our market-leading practices for mergers and acquisitions, private and registered funds, fund finance, derivatives, bank regulatory and tax matters. From delivering innovative direct lending solutions to developing customized hybrid capital financings to navigating complex financial structures and market cycles, the Alternative Capital and Private Credit group brings together a unique blend of experience and ingenuity to help clients achieve their commercial goals through best-in-class execution. Built over more than four decades, Simpson Thacher has a thriving, multidisciplinary European practice featuring approximately 250 attorneys delivering innovative lawyering and dedicated client service.
